

HELP FILL A CONTAINER AND CHANGE KIDS LIVES IN UGANDA

I Am Someone is a grassroots, community-led organisation supporting at risk children and families in Uganda, Kenya, and Sierra Leone. Over the past 20 years, we've built Children's Villages, schools, clean water projects, and vocational centres—offering safe, hope-filled futures for children facing poverty, abandonment, and hardship.

So far, our containers have moved over 90 tonnes of high-quality donated goods. Once emptied, these containers are repurposed into community hubs—from milling stations and storage facilities to workshops and retail spaces. The container headed to Uganda will be transformed into retail/workshop spaces, helping young people gain skills and livelihoods. We're now preparing to send our 5th shipping container to Uganda, and we need your help!
